

UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

CANDIDATE BRIEF

Educational Outreach Fellows ARTS, Educational Engagement

Salary: Grade 6 (£15.12 per hour)

Reference: SESAR1207

Please note that this role is only open to current University of Leeds postgraduate students.

Education Outreach Fellow ARTS (EOFs) Educational Engagement, Student Education Service

Are you enthusiastic about engaging young people in Higher Education? Are you passionate about your programme of study? Would you like to inspire young people and help prepare them for university by sharing your interests, knowledge and research skills?

The University's Educational Engagement department works with young learners aged 11-19 on inspirational, fun and interactive activities to raise awareness of, and aspirations towards, higher education. As an Education Outreach Fellow, you will work as part of a highly motivated, professional team supporting our school liaison work with young people and their teachers by delivering a range of progression and enhancement activities both on and off campus.

In this role, you will specialise in developing and delivering workshops related to your academic area. Currently we are recruiting Education Outreach Arts Fellows for the following disciplines:

Design * Fine Art, History of Art and Cultural Studies * Languages *
History * Music * Media * Philosophy * Religious Studies * English /
Theatre Studies (PhD students only) ****

You will be required to act as a positive ambassador for the University and higher education. You will work with young people from a range of backgrounds in varying audience sizes so you should possess strong communication and presentation skills. Work in this post is available throughout the academic year. Hours are designed to be flexible around your studies. The number of hours you work is dependent on your existing academic commitments and the activity requests we receive from schools/colleges.

What does the role entail?

As an Education Outreach Arts Fellow your main duties will include:

- Developing and delivering talks, workshops and practical activities, both on campus and in schools, relating to your subject area;

- Working with young learners on interactive events and outreach sessions, to raise aspirations towards university and higher education study in your subject area;
- Liaising with school/college staff prior to an event to confirm arrangements;
- Working collaboratively with other Education Outreach Fellows, Student Ambassadors and the Educational Engagement team, as necessary, to prepare resources and deliver sessions;
- Evaluating the sessions delivered, using feedback from students and teachers/staff, to develop and improve delivery method and content;
- Representing the University, including attending recruitment and outreach events and exhibitions;
- Providing general support for Educational Engagement as appropriate.

You will work alongside Educational Engagement teams to determine the most appropriate content to include in your sessions and the most suitable methods of delivery.

These duties provide a framework for the role and should not be regarded as a definitive list. Travel is required as part of the role and other reasonable duties may be required consistent with the grade of the post.

Please note occasional evening/weekend work may be required.

What will you bring to the role?

As an Education Outreach Arts Fellow you will have/be:

- A current University of Leeds student
 - studying for a PGR/PGT Masters or
 - a PhD student who will be funded until at least September 2020 and
 - undertaking studies in one of the following academic areas; Design, Fine Art, History of Art and Cultural Studies, Languages, History, Music, Media, Philosophy, Religious Studies, English* or Theatre Studies* (* PhD students only).
- An effective communicator, both written and oral. You can enthuse and engage learners about your subject area and be able to explain complex information and concepts to young people;

- Strong presentation skills with the ability to confidently deliver to a variety of audiences from diverse backgrounds;
- An interest in and/or experience of working with young people;
- Excellent organisational skills, including the ability to manage your own time and meet deadlines;
- An ability to work independently with minimal supervision when necessary, specifically around sourcing/interpreting information with which you are not familiar;
- Permission from your academic supervisor to take up this role;
- An ability to work flexibly in line with the needs of the post and willingness to travel and undertake evening and weekend work when required.

You may also have:

- An understanding of why it's important for school students to be engaged in Arts and Humanities subjects;
- Understanding of the issues and challenges young people may encounter at school and when progressing to Higher Education.

The University community is made up of a wide range of people with diverse backgrounds and circumstances, which we value and regard as a great asset. As part of our continued commitment to equality and inclusion we welcome applications from people of all backgrounds.
