We will consider job share and flexible working arrangements

Lecturer in Enterprise and Entrepreneurship Studies Management Division Leeds University Business School

As a Lecturer, you will carry out research, teaching and management within the division, faculty and university and contribute to academic leadership in the field of business and management with specific emphasis on Enterprise and Entrepreneurship-related topics.

This is an exciting opportunity to join the Centre for Enterprise and Entrepreneurship Studies (CEES) subject group in the Management Division at Leeds University Business School. We are a vibrant community of scholars engaged in research and teaching, focused on providing data-driven insights, practical knowledge and solutions, that help students and organisations to gain clarity and direction for how to grow their success and their social impact.

What does the role entail?

As a Lecturer in Enterprise and Entrepreneurship Studies your main duties will include:

- Being actively involved in research, innovation and impact at a national and international level as well as, contributing to local School/Faculty activity;
- Maintaining a record of high quality publications of national and international standing;
- Applying for and attracting research funding individually and collaboratively to underpin high quality research activity and research programmes/projects;
- Promoting the integration of your own research area with other research interests within and, as appropriate, outside the School and Faculty;
- Providing research supervision and helping to attract students to the University;
- Undertaking research-led teaching at different levels, including assessment and examinations and contributing towards module design, review and quality assurance mechanisms;
- Providing support and guidance to students, providing timely feedback, acting as a personal tutor, resolving issues and/or referring to specialist parties, where appropriate;

- Contributing effectively to the administrative processes and committee structures of the School/Faculty including taking on leadership roles and managing initiatives which facilitate School, Faculty or University performance or business.

These duties provide a framework for the role and should not be regarded as a definitive list. Other reasonable duties may be required consistent with the grade of the post.

What will you bring to the role?

As a Lecturer in Enterprise and Entrepreneurship Studies you will have:

- A PhD in Entrepreneurship, Management or a closely related discipline;
- A strong portfolio of publications in refereed journals commensurate with a 3 or 4 star rating as defined by the REF and as evidenced by metrics such as the Association of Business Schools journal quality list, the FT45 list, impact factors or citation metrics or other equivalent sources;
- The ability to contribute to and develop interdisciplinary collaborative research projects and funding proposals in a broad range of areas;
- A proven record of teaching post graduate and undergraduate students in a University environment, with an enthusiastic approach to teaching entrepreneurship-related topics, and the ability to interact with students in ways that will enhance the student experience;
- A grounding in a range of research methods (quantitative and qualitative) and demonstrable interest in continuing to develop this skillset;
- Exceptional communication skills with the ability to collaborate with peers and inspire your research colleagues;
- The ability to contribute to management and administrative processes and structures, including managing resources and/or staff.

You may also have:

- Industrial experience working as a consultant or entrepreneur;
- Experience of postgraduate student supervision;
- Experience of programme/academic leadership.
